

Dave's Blarg!

2011-Oct-31

Well there was a lot less Halloween hilarity than one might expect, although after two parties in two days I figured that the holiday had been well attended to ☺ I did get an awesome surprise in the mail today though, it was a belated birthday cake from my sister!! I called her and she carefully explained to me that it wasn't belated at all, she had prepared it on-time for my birthday, it had just taken a while to

You can see my inspirational weight loss kitchen wallpaper on the cabinet, next to all the chip and the chips, and the chips...

mail (for those of you (whoever you may be) that don't have my birthday gold-starred on your calendars, my birthday was a few days back on October 1st....) Anyhow, the cake looked great from the packing tape wrapping to the carefully spelled "Birth-Day" in candles :p And not only did it look great! It tasted really really well compared to how you might expect a cake to taste after being sealed in packing tape for a month (and spending a week of that in someone's car, Dot, dot, dot)! This might not be the best time to mention that I had a chunk of cake down the hatch before it occurred to me to seriously wonder who it was from. Closer inspection of the cake box revealed no return address, and I was only seconds away from calling the CDC and the FBI before I remembered that my lil sister had been mentioning that she was going to send me something in the mails, a quick phone call later my worries of poisoning were only slightly assuaged, as although the cake had been sent by someone who (ostensibly) wasn't out to poison me.... Well.... It had been aged to careful perfection over the course of the month since its birth, with all the health considerations that that may imply....

Thankfully she didn't bake them in the plastic baggie....

Yes, The 'Any' key.....

A brightly inspired costume for working on solar cells ☺

Anyhow, after that it was time for some more computer phone support, which leads to today's quote of the day "What the [blank] is an address bar?" from a seasoned computer user who was otherwise exasperated :D I stopped by the engineering building to Should I put extra smoke in this one?

see how my friends on the solar car team were doing, and they were churning away, and Kathy was rocking her Pikmin outfit :D Those are the highlights of my day, I hope everyone else is having a blast as well ☺

Until tomorrow,

Dave - Dave.ogormanfamily.com