

Dave's Blarg!

2011-Nov-24

Well we got a lot of work done on Wednesday, Four whole OBS' as a matter of fact :D The weather was really starting to pick up by midnight though, and we've spent all day Thursday just hanging onto our bunks ☹ That being said, we've put out our halfwayth OBS! I've got some chocolates I'd had set aside for just this event ☺ I usually pick up some fancy chocolates before the start of a cruise and spend the cruise carefully doling them out, but this time I went for quantity, and they were delicious :D

I love chocolates that come with a map!

So yeah, about the storm :p The forecast has been getting better and better from regular storm:

Oh, Phew, it's on the schedule, well, that's no problem then :D

On to a more realistic estimate :D :

The schedule even gets updated :D

Which isn't all bad, it's been giving me a chance to catch up on some other projects ☺

Which reminds me, Here's my bunk!

I'm just an upper bunk kind of guy ☺

Why? You might ask, am I on the upper bunk when there is no one else in the cabin? Mostly because I got stuck up there for all of my training cruises, so... well.. I just kind of stayed up here ever since :p Plus I like the added element of excitement from doing the leap of death in/out of my bunk to start/end each day :p The sharp-eyed amongst you may also notice a life vest peeking out from underneath my mattress. It's not (well, not exactly..) there out of fear of a sudden vessel sinking. It's there to keep the edge of my mattress jacked up and hold me against the wall (bulkhead). That's the secret to staying in your bunk around here. I might have mentioned this once already, but just a few cruises ago we had a girl fall out of her (top) bunk and break her wrist on the sink across the room on her way to the floor....

Notice the increase in the use of 'safe art' :D

Oh! Funny story!! We switched to a backup satellite system for a while (the course we were on had our main dish blocked by part of the ship), and the ground station for the backup system is in the Nedderlands, so it made some websites come up in foreignese:

The screenshot shows a web browser window with the address bar displaying <https://docs.google.com/a/ogormanfamily.com/?pli=1>. Below the address bar is a navigation bar with links: Mail, Agenda, Documenten, Sites, Discussiegroepen, and Meer ». A yellow button labeled "Wordt gel" is on the right. The Google logo is on the left, and a search bar is on the right. Below the Google logo, the word "Docs" is displayed in red. A red button labeled "MAKEN" with an upload icon is on the left. A checkbox is next to the word "TITEL". Below these elements, a list of items is shown: Startpagina, Met ster, Eigendom van mij, Alle items, and Prullenbak.

← → × <https://docs.google.com/a/ogormanfamily.com/?pli=1>

Mail Agenda Documenten Sites Discussiegroepen Meer » Wordt gel

Google

Docs

MAKEN

☐ TITEL

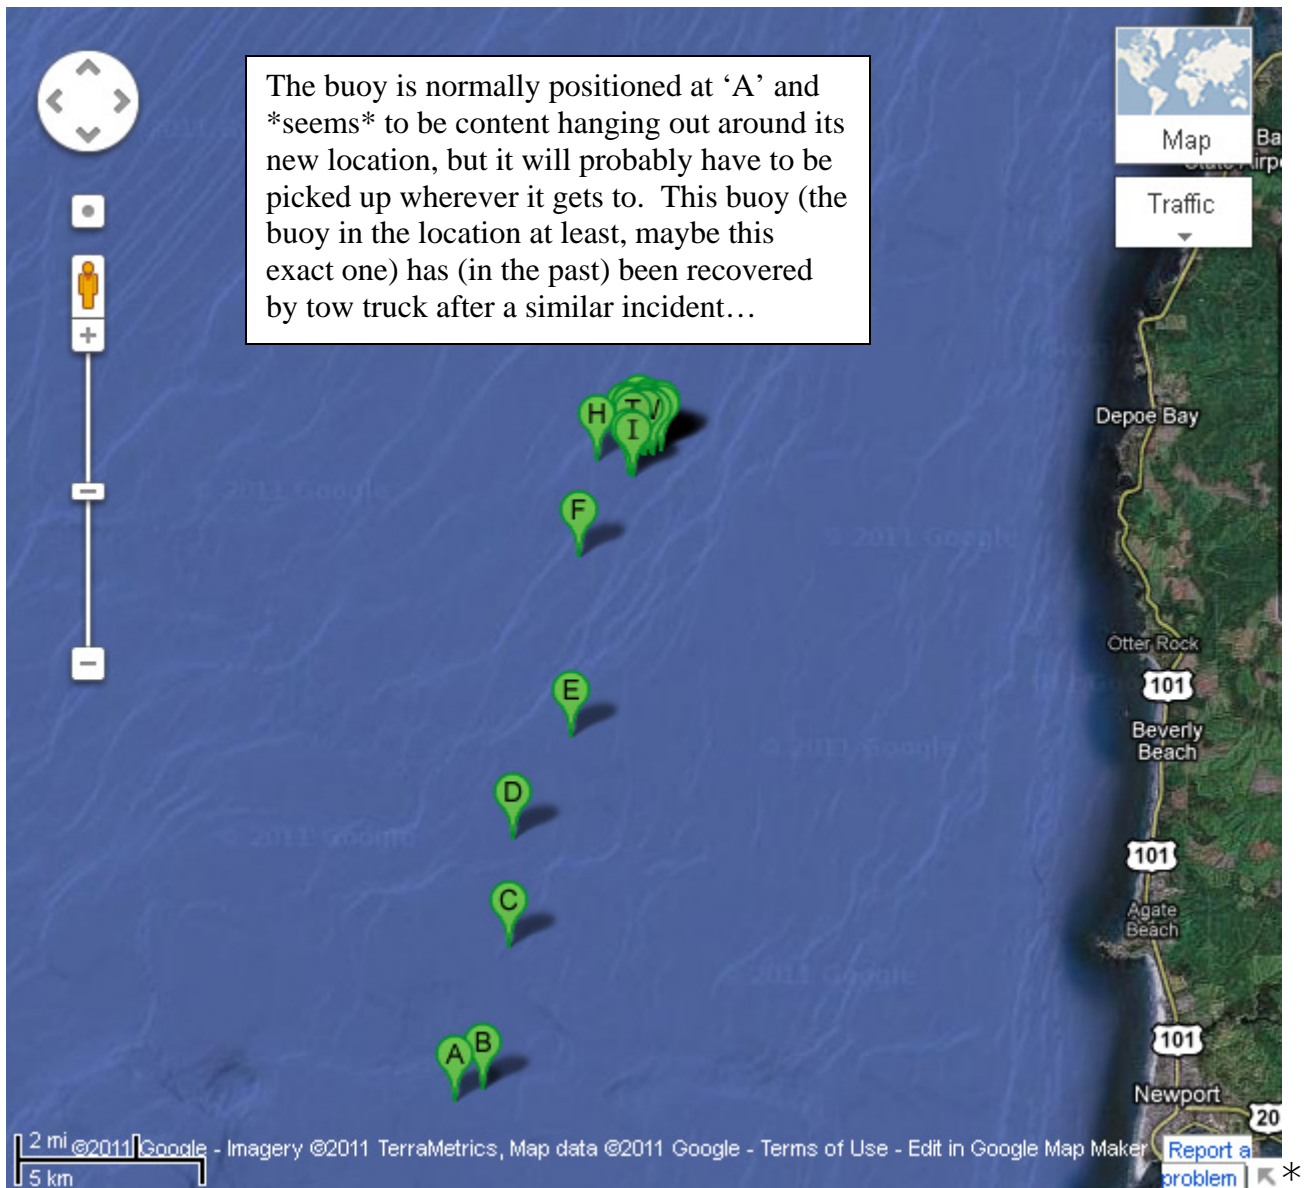

Startpagina

Met ster

Eigendom van mij

Alle items

Prullenbak

And* (In other good news) a buoy off of Newport has broken free, so we (if we're lucky) might get to pick it up on our way back to Newport. My friend Other Dave sent me this map of its location(s) ☺ Well signing off from the Wecoma, this is Dave :☺ (Oh! P.S! We had an awesome Thanksgiving dinner as we held onto the tables :D I hope you did too!) – Dave

Happy Thanksgiving!! :D

Dave.ogormanfamily.com
dave@ogormanfamily.com